3. Actua Innovation Space (transport not included).

Since its inception in 2015, ActuaTech Foundation has been the engine driving innovation in Andorra. Its purpose is to strengthen the technological sector and position the country as the perfect Living Lab where large companies and startups can develop and test their projects. Together with Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) and Google, among others, they have already worked on different major projects, such as the digitalisation of the commercial sector of Andorra, the analysis of the country’s main events and the development of an autonomous vehicle. It also has an Innovation Space, located on the lowest floor of the Caldea building, where most of these projects are displayed.
